SNEHAVEEDU AMBALATHARA

In the district of Kasaragod, Kerala, where Endosulfan pesticide poisoning has wreaked havoc, affecting the lives of over 6,500 individuals and their families, the need for dedicated support and care has never been more critical. It was against this backdrop of widespread suffering and uncertainty that SNEHAM - Society for Nursing Education & Habitation for Mentally Challenged - was founded in 2014. This initiative was sparked by the heartfelt plea of a mother named Sheelavati, who was deeply concerned about the future of her mentally challenged child.

In response to this urgent need, SNEHAM established "Sneha Veedu," a daycare program for children with mental disabilities, inaugurated on December 8, 2014, in Kanhangad Ambalathara. Over the past decade, Sneha Veedu has become a beacon of hope and support for hundreds of children and their families, offering them a chance at a better quality of life.

Currently, Sneha Veedu serves approximately 100 children and their families on a regular basis, providing a nurturing and supportive environment. The services offered include specialized education tailored to the unique needs of each child, vocational training to equip them with practical skills for future independence, and precise therapies such as occupational, physiotherapy, behavioral, and speech therapy. These comprehensive services are designed to promote the holistic development of the children, helping them to achieve their fullest potential despite their challenges.
